International Journal of Civil Engineering (IJCE) ISSN(P): 2278-9987; ISSN(E): 2278-9995 Vol. 5, Issue 5, Aug - Sep 2016; 13-24 © IASET

ENERGY AND BUILDING MATERIALS

B. SUREKHA<sup>1</sup>, M. N. HEGDE<sup>2</sup> & K. S. JAGADISH<sup>3</sup>

<sup>1</sup>Research Scholar, PHD, Dr. Ait Research Centre, Bengaluru, India
<sup>2</sup>Professor, Department of Civil Engineering, Dr. Ambedkar Institute of Technology, Bengaluru, India
<sup>3</sup>Formerly Professor, Department of Civil Engineering, IISC, Bangalore, Karnataka, India

ABSTRACT

The embodied energy of Building materials is presented. The energy intensity is calculated as per the data collected from manufactures in and around Bangalore City. Building materials include natural material, processed materials and Building elements. Embodied energy for alternative building materials and building elements is also presented.

KEYWORDS: Embodied Energy, Energy in Building Materials, Alternative Materials Energy